Those placed by government in control of educational affairs report, Spelling is not what it ought to be. Text-books should be used for this subject. What we want is to teach spelling and not merely to practice spelling. A spelling-book revival in England seems to be the result. In the foremost educational center of our own country, the experiment of teaching spelling without the aid of a special text-book has been tried with results so far from satisfactory that the spelling-book has been restored. Wherever the subject of spelling has been most seriously considered, a strong reaction in favor of a suitable text-book is evident. Is there a substitute for the spelling-book? - In the lower primary grades, the work of copying words and sentences from the black-board and of writing exercises in connection with oral language-lessons is undoubtedly far more profitable than conning the primary speller as now constructed. For the more advanced grades, copying from the reading-book, writing compositions and making abstract of daily lessons in geography, history, etc., afford good practice in spelling; but will and can the average teacher, without sacrifice of the time belonging to the subject matter of the lessons in geography, history, etc., exercise that unremitting vigilance...
