CHAPTER IV. 19. --THE OFFICE OF THE MINISTRY. HE office of the ministry, according to modern theology, is not invested with functions commensurate with the divine and supernatural facts and realities with which it has to deal, and in whose service it has been instituted. It has no power to bind the conscience of men in matters of faith and practice, being clothed with no binding power of any kind. However well a man may be accredited as a minister of Jesus Christ, he is, in no real sense, the organ through which Christ speaks, whose words and official acts are to be accepted in good faith, as beirfg in accordance with his instructions. Instead of such faith in his favor, or rather in favor of the truth he represents, in the premises, he must allow those to whom he is accredited, the advantage...
